FAIR TO BRING VISITORS AND MONEY TO WEST

Tourist Expenditures During Exposition Expected To Hit Billion Dollars

An avalanche of money—more than one billion dollars—will engulf the entire West in 1939, and the Golden Gate International Exposition is one of the principal factors in unloosing this cascade of currency, it was stated by authorities this week after figures compiled by the survey department of the Exposition were analyzed.

The lure of the West paid enormous dividends in 1936, when tourists spent approximately $750,000,000 in eleven Western states. With the Exposition and the two great bridges over San Francisco Bay waters as added attractions, expenditures of visitors in 1939 are expected to swell this total to more than $1,000,000,000.

Included in this billion dollar figure are the monies to be paid for admissions to San Francisco World Fair, and the money that will be spent at Treasure Island, site of the Exposition, at concessions. Conservative estimates presage the passing of 20,000,000 persons through the Exposition turnstiles.

VALLEY CENTER OFFERS SUMMER ACTIVITY PLAN

Interesting Recreation And Hobby Program For 'Stay At Home Vacationers'

Where shall we go? What shall we do? No longer does anyone in Visitacion Valley ask that question once they learn of the Community Center, 66 Raymond avenue, and its program for "Stay at Home Vacations."

There are so many things to do, to see, to make, that one is confronted with the problem of which of the many interesting activities to take up. There are swimming lessons, hikes, outings, educational tours, classes in hobbies such as areoplane building, radio, woodwork, clay modeling, outdoor sketching, painting, nature study, drama, harmonica, gym, sports dancing, social functions and varied play in the game room.

All these activities are available for the mere cost of less than one cent a day for a family. In Visitacion Valley the center offers a worthwhile vacation spent in a well rounded recreational program.

Information as to activities and schedules may be obtained at the Visitacion Valley Community Center, 66 Raymond avenue, DElaware 2819.

Fourney Moves Shop To New Location

J. A. Fourney, Brisbane business man, has moved his electrical shop from the Lopez Hall to his new building, 400 Visitacion avenue at the corner of Klamath street. Mr. and Mrs. Fourney, this week, took up residence in the living quarters above the store.

The shop has floor space, 25x30 feet, fine show cases and displays. Fourney handles all types of electrical equipment and does radio work.

Federal Music Gives "The Beatitudes"

An unusual opportunity is being offered to San Francisco Bay area music lovers, Monday evening of next week, at the Alcazar Theater to hear one of the seldom given oratories, namely "The Beatitudes" of Cesar Franck. This magnificent work is scored for full orchestra, chorus and soloists.

For the past several weeks the chorus and soloists have been preparing this great work, and ensemble rehearsals with orchestra are now in full swing. Giulio Silva, director, looks forward to an exceptionally fine performance.

W. S. C. Star Wins

Loren Benke

Loren Benke, ace Washington State College sprinter, who is pictured as he defeated a brilliant field of athletes in the quarter-mile race at the N. C. A. A. track meet held at Berkeley, Cal. Timed in 47.1 seconds, Benke finished about a yard ahead of Ray Malott of Stanford, who is partly visible behind the victor. University of Southern California won the meet, scoring 62 points, while Stanford placed second with 50.

Catholic Club Has Four New Officers

Brisbane Catholic Club held open house at its installation ceremony, Wednesday evening of this week, at the Brisbane Social Hall. Rev. C. Bransfeld acted as installing officer. Approximately 75 attended the program.

Mrs. Ione Kinney recited two poems, Eddie Schwingle Delhoff gave an accordion solo and Isabella and Johnnie Rivera presented several Spanish dances in costume.

The officers installed were: Mrs. Lewis, president; Mrs. Allamand, vice president; Mrs. Grace Georg, treasurer, and Mrs. Ray Canter, secretary.

Refreshments were served at the close of the program.

School Board Holds Final Meet Of Year

Members of the Bayshore School Board held their final meeting of the fiscal year, Friday evening of last week, at the Bayshore School. This was the last meeting of the current term of Trustee Ford.

It was announced that bids for the school auditorium and alterations of the old building will be called for soon. Plans specify a compete renovation of the old school, installation of new plumbing and the erection of a modern auditorium, lunch room and kitchen. The trustees asked Architect Edwards to alter plans in order that the auditorium may be converted into a gymnasium when the need arises.

"And Nobody Hurt" In Terrific Crash

In a freak crackup on the Bayshore Highway at the Brisbane intersection, Thursday of this week, no one was injured despite the jumbled and tortured wreckage of what had once been a powerful truck, trailer and a new Ford V-8.

Robert Gunn of Brisbane turned onto Bayshore Highway, headed for his place of work in San Francisco. A truck and trailer, driven by C. L. Clement overtook Gunn's car, overturned it and then climbed atop it.

Gunn, uninjured, climbed from the overturned auto; Clement, unhurt, scrambled down from a precarious perch at the top of the pileup.

CITIZENS OF SAN MATEO COUNTY PASS AMENDMENT AND APPROVE PLAN FOR MANAGER ELECTION

Treasurer, Engineer, Tax Collector, Recorder And Coroner Returned To Vote Status

Carried by heavy support in the north end and south end unincorporated districts the proposed county charter amendments in their original form were approved in the special election that drew but 27 per cent of the county electorate to polls, Tuesday of this week.

A second proposal on the ballot, inserted by the Board of Supervisors and providing that the office of county executive retain its appointive status, was turned down.

RETURNS

Election returns gave proposition No. 1, making elective the now appointive offices of executive, treasurer, recorder, engineer, coroner and tax collector, the following vote:

	Yes	No
No. 1	6785	5289

(1496 difference)

Proposition No. 2, which up to the time when north end returns were brought in appeared a very close race, was turned down:

	Yes	No
No. 2	5360	6319

(959 difference)

With only a majority vote required for victory, the amendments must now first be approved by the state legislature to become effective.

RESULTS

Below are tabulated results of the election in the First Township:

	No. 1		No. 2
	Yes	No	Yes	No
Daly City	777	377	380	739
Bayshore City	77	14	19	63
Brisbane	86	27	30	80
Colma	139	34	38	128
Lawndale	27	7	11	27
South San Francisco	547	160	154	507
San Bruno	291	111	102	274
Lomita Park	75	28	32	69

The total vote cast was approximately 12,074. The county has about 44,300 registered voters.

Brisbane Welcomes Dr. S. J. Guardino

Dr. S. J. Guardino, formerly practicing in San Francisco, recently opened new offices in the Lopez building, 400 Mendocino street at the corner of Visitacion avenue, in Brisbane. The entire community has welcomed him.

Dr. Guardino has four well equipped office units: comfortable reception room, consultation room, efficient laboratory, and physiotherapy room.

When interviewed Dr. Guardino said, "I am happy to have the opportunity to build a practice in Brisbane. Local people have given me a cordial welcome."

After July 1, Dr. and Mrs. Guardino will make their home at 102 Solano street.

Emperor Kang Teh Stabbed By Servant

Emperor Kang Teh

Emperor Kang Teh of Manchukuo who, according to reports from the Manchukuo capital Hsingking, was stabbed in the back by a Chinese servant June 12. The reports said the emperor was recovering and that two persons accused of plotting his life were being held by the police.

500 Nurses Convene In Five Day Session

Representatives of the nurses of San Mateo County this week participated in the five day convention for California Nurses at San Jose.

Organizations represented at the convention, which was attended by 500 nurses, included the California State Nurses Association, California State Organization for Public Health Nursing, and the California League of Nursing Education.

San Mateo County Health Nurse Hilda Schneider led a discussion on nursing legislation at the convention, Tuesday of this week.

Plans Polar Hop

Jimmy Mattern

Jimmy Mattern, famed American flier, who recently announced he would attempt a non-stop flight from Oakland, Cal., to Moscow within the next three weeks. Mattern made his announcement at a luncheon in honor of the three Soviet airmen who flew from Moscow to Vancouver, Wash. The plane he will use on the flight holds only enough gasoline for a 5000 mile trip, but Mattern plans to refuel while in the air over Fairbanks, Alaska. He plans to hop alone.

Vagabond Sketches
by DON AMES

(Editor's Note: This column was submitted, Monday, before the fight. Don seems to have doped it correctly.)

Monday, June 21 — Tomorrow night will see a new heavyweight boxing champion. Joe Louis!

Although my name is not among those who have made famous predictions of sporting events, I claim that my "hunch" is just as good as Henry McLemore's phrenology (the art of reading bumps on one's head). Scribe McLemore is of the opinion that James J. Braddock will weather the storm and outpoint the Negro youth.

Of course, who I think will win and who I hope will win is another thing.

SHORT STORY—Unrest continues in American labor centers. There must be some solution!

TODAY'S EPIGRAM—Logic, to many people, is such a vague factor.

Graduate Six Pupils At Rockaway School

Six pupils were graduated from the Rockaway Public School, Thursday evening of last week. Exercises were directed by Principal Wallace and her assistant, Mrs. Alice Hughes. Guests of honor and speakers on the program were James Ferguson, principal of Jefferson Union High School, and Mrs. Stella Jensen, clerk of the Jefferson Union High School Board.

The graduating students presented a skit, "Ann Drives the Car." Characters were played by Rosemary Loney, Frank Piltz and Annabelle Troglia. Evelyn Dalessio gave the address of welcome; piano selections were presented by Nathan Blume, Gene Pidgeon and Frank Piltz. Gene Pidgeon was also heard in a recitation. The valedictory was delivered by Rosemary Loney.

RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Graduates included Rosemary Loney, Annabelle Troglia, Evelyn Dalessio, Nathan Blume, Frank Piltz and Enrico Romano.

Diplomas were presented by Mrs. Hertha Rich, representing the Board of School Trustees.

A message of thanks was voiced by the graduating class for the box of fresh California dates from the Ferguson ranch at Coachilla and to Mr. Pendola for the beautiful flowers used in decorating the hall.

James Troglia of the School Board was present.

BUSINESS MEN MEET TO PLAN IMPROVEMENTS

Four Committees Appointed At Thursday Evening Session

Four committees were appointed at a meeting of the Brisbane merchants, Thursday evening of this week, to outline plans for contemplated civic improvements, the Fourth of July celebration and the drawing of a new constitution for the association.

B. Mudersbach, Joe Mozzetti and Harry Jack were named to plan a promotional program for street lighting. President George Heywood, Phil Sbriglia and Jack Bratton will form a committee to arrange merchant participation in the July 4 celebration. Four members were appointed to work on the revision of the constitution. They were C. Wilson, T. Burns, G. Jack and Albert H. Boynton. Doctor S. J. Guardino and Fred Dundas will form a public relations committee to invite new memberships and plan activities.

EXPECT STATE FAIR TO EXCEL FORMER RECORD

California Event To Be In Session September 3 To September 12

The 83 year old California State Fair is being groomed to break even more records in 1937 than the record shattering fair of last year. The new secretary manager has surveyed all prospects and declares every department is prepared to excel.

Entries for the annual race classic include outstanding favorite horses from widely known tracks. Purses of more than $40,000 are the greatest in the history of the fair. A current hit from the New York Hippodrome, Lottie Mayor's Disappearing Water Ballet, has been obtained for the night show and will leave for London after filling the fair engagement.

FARM DISPLAYS

Arrangements are being made for outstanding agricultural and livestock displays. As a part of this program, the following announcement was made to agricultural organizations: California produces what no other state can. This alone is sufficient reason to build a greater state fair. In line with this thought, it is believed that the state fair soon can be placed on the standard of a world exposition.

The fair days are September 3 to 12. The California Fair is the second largest state fair in America.

Visitacion Valley Will Hear Reports

At the regular meeting of the Visitacion Valley Improvement Club, Monday evening of next week, a complete financial report on expense and income of the Visitacion Valley Community Fiesta program will be made.

J. F. Calverley, chairman of the committee on streets, will make a detailed report on the realigning and widening of Geneva avenue and the widening of Third street from Islais street to Bayshore boulevard.

The membership committee now reports 230 members in good standing.

Thespians To Give "The Ghost Train"

Aspiring Thespians tried out for roles in "The Ghost Train," three act mystery thriller, to be presented soon by the Visitacion Valley Players, Wednesday evening of this week. Fred Enderlin is directing the play.

The setting of the drama is a railroad station and the theme deals with the reactions of the conglomerate group of passengers.

New members are always welcomed by the Visitacion Valley Players, who hold their meetings at the community center, 66 Raymond avenue.

Terry More Certain Than Ever Cubs Are Giants Big Threat

HERE'S what they say:

Bill Terry—"The more we look at the rest of the league the more we figure those Cubs are the ones we have to beat. Of course you can't tell how well their pitching will stand up, but with Hartnett back there catching it looks a lot better. They stayed up close to the top when they were having plenty of hard luck and now their power boys are back in action they're bound to be tougher.

"What? Yes, that's right. They've been something like us with Leiber out and Otty not doing so good. Don't know when Hank'll be back, either. You know they only gave him light food when he was in the hospital and now he's got to build himself up again before he can take chances on hard playing in the hot sun.

"Tough break that, because he certainly looked swell in spring training, but let me tell you something. That other guy out there in his place (Ripple) isn't going to hurt any ball club. He's hitting close to .300, won a couple of games on the road that nobody seems to have given him credit for, and he can field as good, or better, than anybody you can name in the league.

"Jersey City? It's a great baseball town with one of the finest parks I've ever seen, and our tieup is bound to be helpful both to the Giants and to the folks over there. We bought in too late to do any real good this year though, even if we have got plenty of money to spend and so we can't promise anything this season. But we're improving. I was talking to Travis Jackson recently and he says Bluege is just the shortstop we've needed over there. Also there's a couple of other deals we may swing before long."

Carl Hubbell—"Do I measure my pants every day so as to get them just exactly one inch above the second white stripe on my stocking? Nope. That's just because they don't make baseball pants any longer. I like 'em long and I stretch 'em as far as they'll reach."

Charley Grimm—"Yeah, we figure we've got to beat the Giants but you've got to take them all seriously in this league this year. Maybe Bowman won't continue pitching so good in Pittsburgh but they've got a better club out there than last year.

Charley Grimm

"Then go down in the second division and look at Philadelphia as an example. Jimmy Wilson's come up with three good pitchers and that kid Scharein knows how to handle the ball at shortstop even though he is a little green and mainly used to second base. Yeah, we've got some good youngsters ourselves. We figure Marty's going okay out there in the outfield now and that Shoun is a pitcher almost anybody would like to have.

"Parmalee? We let him pitch his own games because we know he's got as much as anybody in the league when he's right. If he gets into trouble the infield doesn't come charging in telling him how to pitch and neither do the boys start yelling from the bench. We just let Gabby Hartnett handle him and they've been doing a mighty good job together even if he has lost a couple of tough ones.

"What's that? You're blamed well right we're pleased with Frey and he may win a regular job with us if those others don't continue to hustle. He's helped us a lot. Right now we're practicing him in the outfield more than any place else and that may turn out to be his spot because there's a chance his arm may not be quite good enough for shortstop.

"Anywhere we play him is okay with him though, because he's a swell kid to handle and loves to play. Fast, too. When we got him I knew he could shake a foot but I had no idea how fast he really was."

Roy Parmelee—"It feels swell to be with this club. Especially after last year. Boy, that St. Louis heat was terrible and it was only part of it. New York? Hey, don't go quoting me on anything like that. The fans were swell to me there."

Lonny Frey—"How does it feel to be sold down the river and then wind up eating in the dining room with the quality folks? That's baseball. Brooklyn was okay, but they're treat to me here and——"

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

SMOKEY JOE MARTIN, former Giants' infielder, now with Baltimore, will be a papa some time this month . . . Jim Braddock's training camp at Grand Beach, Mich., was the same one used by Tom Gibbons when he prepared for Georges Carpentier . . . Golfers always drink hot tea between rounds in important tournaments . . . Hank Luisetti, Stanford's great basketball player, high-jumped 6 feet 3 inches in the U. S. C. dual meet and yet failed to score . . . The Giants are among the several National league clubs now convinced that a bunting game will beat Dizzy Dean.

Paul Runyan seems due to win all prizes for being the best-dressed golfer this year . . . One secret of Hirsch Jacobs' success as a trainer is the attention he pays to his horses' hooves. Does all the pedicuring, except shoeing the gee gees, himself . . . Frank Menke, the sports expert, now handles publicity for the Rockingham park racetrack.

Gossipers insist that the Missouri Valley A. A. U. Basketball league plans a new setup independent of the A. A. U. Commercial sponsors resent the limitations in schedules imposed by the amateur authorities. If the break occurs there will be practically no A. A. U. basketball left . . . J. H. Louchheim, who owns Pompoon, and Danny Clark, who trains him, were boyhood chums. They united in 1936 after 18 years of only nodding as they passed by.

Although Santa Clara and Villanova had hoped to play football in Jersey City's new stadium this fall the place will not be ready for gridiron combats until 1938 . . . Damon Runyan is writing a novel . . . Ken Smith, the baseball writer, has bought a new automobile and plans to invest the rest of his millions in a summer estate on the banks of the Housatonic.

More than 50 per cent of the bookies who operate at those high-class hunts meets in Westchester and Long Island come from Philadelphia . . . Promoter Jack Pfeffer claims that the New York state athletic commission has ruined a fine million-dollar business — wrestling . . . The Boston Garden has paid an $8 dividend on preferred stock . . . Mark Kelly is doing a life of John L. Sullivan which will appear in book form and on the screen . . . Probably just to show that baseball is an expensive proposition the Cubs reveal that they used 9,124 baseballs and 774 bats (this is approximately 59 balls and 5 bats per game) last year . . . Joey LaGuardia, the fighter, claims he is a distant relative of hizzoner the mayor.

Shoe Millionaires Are Trying to Boost Browns

Five shoe millionaires with an available capital of more than $50,000,000 own the St. Louis Browns. Even with all that dough Rogers Hornsby has convinced them that they cannot buy a pennant and they are are intent on developing a farm system . . . Toney Betts, the racing writer, can play the piano well enough to turn down bids to perform in night club orchestras. New York's chief boxing inspector, Lou Beck, carries a variety of pictures, all different poses of his new baby boy.

Rogers Hornsby

Things change rapidly in golf. A short time ago Sam Snead was rated tops among the nation's younger golfers. Now the better minds are pattycaking for the blue-eyed Texan, Jimmy Demaret. Say he has the finest all-around game of any youngster in the sport . . . Courts must hate to have prizefight cases come before them. There always is so much baseless whispering about racket and newspaper fixes.

A driver may ride alone or with a mechanic next year in the Indianapolis 500-mile automobile race if a contemplated change in the rules is made. Once more fuel will be restricted as it was a year ago. If international rules are adopted, the drivers will have their choice as to the kind of fuel . . . George Marshall will conduct a 500-mile race this summer at Dallas, Texas . . . Dick Merrill, the transatlantic aviator, feels safer in the air than he did in a tour of the Indianapolis speedway in a car driven by Ralph De Palma.

Byron Nelson is the closest mouthed of all top golfers . . . Viola Dana, the former movie queen who now is Mrs. Jimmy Thomson, is as nervous as a two-year-old when her Shawnee Slugger husband is playing an important golf match . . . Art Smith, brother of Lou, the Cincinnati Enquirer's very good baseball writer, is pro at a Cincinnati golf club . . . Big-time baseball managers are plotting some harsh treatment for a radio announcer in one of the Western towns. The gent has a habit of dropping around to the hotel and fixing up the teams' bad boys with dates, drinks and other entertainment

Roy Hughes, Cleveland infielder, never had made a home run in the major leagues until recently, when a line drive which just cleared the fingers of Billy Rogell, Tiger shortstop, rolled to the left center field wall in the Cleveland stadium.

BETSY ROSS HOUSE Where Our Flag Was Made

THE historic incident of the origin of the flag is one of the dramatic stories of Revolutionary days, featuring one of the more colorful women of colonial history, the widow of John Ross, upholsterer, who fell early in the revolution. A storehouse of munitions he was guarding exploded. Betsy Ross has been pictured as the Florence Nightingale of the Revolution.

To this brick house at 239 Arch street, Philadelphia, came one day in June, 1776, a committee of Gen. George Washington, Col. George Ross, uncle of Betsy's late husband, and the wealthy Robert Morris, chairman of the secret commission on supplies for the colonial forces. They requested Betsy Ross to make the flag according to a design given her by General Washington, and which was officially adopted by the congress the following year.

The old house is a two-and-a-half story structure, 17 feet wide, with but two rooms on the ground floor. At the front was the upholstery shop, and in the rear, connected by a hallway, was the sitting room, used as a dining room on gala occasions. Beneath this was the basement kitchen, reached by a winding stairs. Bedrooms were on the second and dormer floors. The living room still has the large fireplace with the white mantel framed with the original blue Dutch tile; the room was originally painted blue as shown by the removal of many coats of paint.

An inch-by-inch study of the building has revealed many changes since the flag incident. The front entrance had been shifted from one side of the building to the other; a chimney and three fireplaces had been closed up; four windows had been made into doors; the original floor of the basement kitchen was found ten inches beneath the present brick flooring.

All of the original building is being carefully preserved. Thus it was discovered that six doors with original L-shaped hinges of colonial make remain; two sets of colonial shutters, of spliced wood, panelled inside, with authentic hinges were discovered on the rear of the building. Two second-story front windows and a dormer window were originals even to the small panes of glass.

Flag Code Provides for Reverence to the Emblem

THE following extract from the flag code, providing for reverence to the national emblem, adopted by the National Flag Conferences held in Washington in 1923 and 1924, gives the form of the salute:

"During the ceremony of hoisting or lowering the flag or when the flag is passing in a parade or in a review, all persons present should face the flag, stand at attention and salute. Those present in uniform should render the right hand salute. When not in uniform, men should remove the head-dress with the right hand and hold it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart. Women should salute by placing the right hand over the heart. The salute to the flag in the moving column is rendered at the moment the flag passes."

CALIFORNIA News of the Week

Prize Horse Killed

Marysville. — Collapse of floor boards of a horse transport trailer tied to a truck caused the loss to E. C. Johnson of a thoroughbred stud he recently purchased for $4300. The animal was so severely injured he had to be destroyed.

State's Oldest Indian Dies

Los Angeles.—White Horse Eagle, known as California's "oldest Indian," died last week at the age of 115 years. The coroner's report lists the Osage's birthday at January 1, 1822. He lived with his wife, Mrs. Wa The Na Eagle, on a government pension.

Theater Project Cut Is Ordered

Los Angeles.—George Gerwing, State director of the federal theater project, said orders have been given to dismiss 384 persons from the project in California by July 15th. The reduction is simultaneous with orders to cut the federal music project and the Works Progress Administration personnel.

Slot Machines Sunk in Bay

San Francisco. — Four hundred slot machines of the more than 1,000 confiscated by the police during the last three years were dumped into San Francisco bay. The destruction of the illegal gambling devices followed a ruling by City Attorney John O'Toole that all slot machines held for three years be destroyed.

County Restores Pay Cuts

Riverside.—Cuts in the salaries of county employees, adopted three years ago, were restored by the board of supervisors. Most of the slashes were 10 per cent, although some of the larger ones had been cut on a sliding scale. The higher pay will go into effect with the new fiscal year budget.

Slayer Ends Life in Cell

Hanford.—Convicted of the murder of his wife and son and facing a sanity trial, John J. Alves, 44 year old barber, killed himself in his jail cell by slashing his wrists with a razor. He left a suicide note directing that a slab over his grave bear the inscription: "The more I saw of men, the more I thought of dogs."

School of Invention on Way

San Francisco.—A school of invention, claimed to be the first of its kind in the nation, will open this fall in San Francisco. George Arthur Merrill, director of the California School of Mechanical Arts, announced that beginning in September with the start of the fall term, the school will be established as a unit of his institution.

Star Athlete Graduates

Carpinteria. — Carpinteria High School lost a major portion of its athletic strength with the graduation at the end of the term of James Peterson. Peterson won every athletic letter the school had to offer. He captured sixteen varsity insignia, each for four years of football, basketball, track and baseball. He also won two tennis awards, and a few scattering special awards. As a football player, he was the team's leading scorer for four years. He set a record for batting and pinch-hitting in baseball, and held the California Interscholastic Federation record for pole-vaulting on the track team.

Cost of State Government Jumps

Sacramento.—State and political subdivision government cost California citizens the record breaking sum of $2,665,753.42 per day, or $973,000,000 for the 1935-36 fiscal year, Controller Harry B. Riley announced. The expenditure was $70,000,000 more than during the previous accounting period, 1934-35. Cash outlay that year topped the cost of government during the 1933-34 period by $111,000,000. Governor Merriam's budget for the next biennium totals approximately $446,000,000 for State expenditures. Special appropriation bills totaling more than $45,000,000 are awaiting his consideration.

Governor Signs Anti-Dope Bills

Sacramento.—Governor Merriam has signed two bills sponsored by Senator Sanborn Young of Los Gatos which strike at the dope evil in California. One makes it unlawful to grow marihuana. Punishment for the offense is fixed at imprisonment in the county jail or State prison for not more than six years for first offenders. Second offenders may be sentenced to serve as long as ten years in the State prison. The second bill repeals antiquated sections of the penal code relating to control of narcotic traffic.

New Pension Plan Started

Los Angeles.—A new old age pension plan, to be known as the All-America Inc., has been announced by R. E. Clements, co-founder with Dr. Francis E. Townsend of the Townsend pension movement. The new organization, Clements said, will work for a 2 per cent transactions tax to provide a retirement pension not to exceed $100 for those past 60, with an excess from the levy to be prorated among the blind, crippled and other unfortunates to remove them from public charity.

Modern-to-the-Minute

AS RIGHT as rain, and as cooling, are these clever young modes for the woman who sews. Each is simple to make, pleasant to wear, and may possibly be the difference between a modern and a mediocre wardrobe for you this summer. Sew - Your - Own wants to help you look your best, to stamp you modern-to-the-minute, and therefore is anxious and proud to present today's trio.

A Two Piecer for Chic.

If he tells you you're just a nice armful you are the right size and type to wear the blouse 'n' skirt shown above, left. The waistcoat idea is very much the thing in blouses. The skirt is terribly young and figure flattering. What more could any little heart desire? You can have this smart ensemble for a song and a minimum of stitches. Think of the countless summer occasions ahead that all but specify this very outfit.

You should sue for slander anyone who calls you a Smart Matron when you don this gratifying new fashion (above center). You step into an entirely new size range when you step forth in this frock. So simple is its technique—merely a deftly designed feminine jabot, softly draped contours, and a meticulously slender skirt—yet so effective. It will thrill you in marquisette chiffon or lace, and it will keep you deliciously cool.

Play the net or the grandstand in the sports dress at the right and feel perfectly confident in any event. There isn't one among us who hasn't a real yen for a streamlined all-of-a-piece sportster that's on and off in a jiffy, launders easily, and comes up smiling time after time. You can concoct something clever of seersucker or pique and complete the whole thing in an afternoon. Why not order your size today and have all-summer benefit of a really companionable sports dress?

The Patterns.

POINT SAN PEDRO ROCKAWAY BEACH

A 26 pound salmon was caught at Pedro Point, Saturday of last week, but the water is still to rough for the usually good catches. A number of fishing parties were out Sunday of this week, however. Grace Danmann caught five bass (five and six pounders) while fishing at Sears Point cut-off, Tuesday of this week.

Bill Bryant and Lyman Lewis went fishing at Pedro Creek recently and caught three good sized trout.

A notable visitor in the valley on Monday of this week was the wife of Martin Murphy, production manager of Universal Studios, Hollywood, who was a dinner guest at the Danmann home. J. Rossini of Vallejo and his wife, a sister of Grace Danmann, were also guests of honor. Mrs. Rossini, who is a radio artist, sang two songs for the guests, "Trees" and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Mrs. Rossini sang at the wedding of Schumann-Heink's son, Ferdinand, several years ago.

Dr. Shawk of Rockaway Beach has added three upstairs windows to his house. Mrs. William Bailey went horseback riding with a neighbor one afternoon last week. The Clyde Garners are working in their garden these warm days, building a stone wall and doing a lot of planting. The Fred Bohrs drove down for the week-end. Leo Harris is designing and installing some beautiful lights in the Harry Rees tavern, which is rapidly nearing completion. It promises to be one of the outstanding places for originality and artistic beauty in the entire country. A trio of small boys accomplished the adventurous feat of harnessing and riding Jenny, the tiny self-willed Conroy burro.

Ada and Roy Schwartz have finished building their high swung garage at the turn of Cliffton avenue, Pedro Valley. It has a magnificent view, and, if the automobile doesn't notice it, the owners will.

Warren Le Fevre, young son of Dr. Le Fevre, has joined the Sea Scouts. Warren was formerly a Boy Scout and strictly a landsman, but since his father bought a motor cruiser he is interested in marine activities. His mother suggests that Warren may be appointed captain of his father's boat.

Mrs. Alice Marks and Julia Leeper came down from San Francisco for the week to the Marks cottage near the Danmann residence.

SENSITIVE STEERING

Steering apparatus on late model cars is much more sensitive and efficient than on the older models, according to the California State Automobile Association. Consequently, improper wheel alignment, looseness, and similar conditions are more likely to cause steering trouble.

NEWS FLASHES From SHARP PARK

Mr. and Mrs. Art Craig have just returned from a vacation trip to Portland, Ore. During their absence their home was remodeled and modernized.

George Paolozzo, who accidentally took arsenic last week, is rapidly recovering at the Villa Hospital.

The Morrisons have a fine new home in Sharp Park. They have already moved in. Construction work was carried on by T. A. Svorinic.

Little Margaret Ann Steinhouser has recovered from a case of chicken pox. Her many friends are happy to see her out again.

Mrs. Taylor is visiting here this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrick.

The engagement of James Rovegno to Miss Violetta Vagnolli was announced, Saturday evening of last week, at a party. August 9 has been set as the date of the wedding for the couple. Rovegno is butcher at the Brighton Market.

A dance will be held this evening at the picnic grounds in Sharp Park.

Matthew Stack, aviator, visited his mother here, Thursday of this week.

C. H. Wilkinson, proprietor of the picnic grounds at Sharp Park, announces a Fourth of July celebration. There will be dancing July 3, 4 and 5 to the music of Glenwood Flynn and his Rhythm Kings. Cars may park free inside the picnic grounds.

EFFICIENT COIL

A coil or condenser which is not performing perfectly should be replaced.

These units are not expensive and if below required standards they may cease to function without warning. They should be tested at regular intervals.

A World Poultry Congress will be held in San Francisco in 1939 in conjunction with the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

numbers will be awarded at the close of the presentation. Beer, coffee and sandwiches will be served during the course of the afternoon.

BARBECUE PIT

At 5 p. m. a beef barbecue will be enjoyed at the fine brick pit constructed for the celebration by the firemen. The pit, a 3 by 6 foot construction with a fine steel grate, is located opposite the firehouse.

Dancing at the firehouse will be enjoyed Sunday evening.

Monday's program will begin with a gala parade at 1 p. m. The procession will assemble at Visitacion avenue and San Francisco street and progress through all Brisbane streets, pass the judges stand on Glen Park way and terminate at the firehouse. Boy Scout unit, ladies auxiliary of the Fire Department, Brisbane Social Club, other marching units, floats and the queen on a specially decorated float will participate in the parade. Prizes will be awarded.

TO HOLD RACES

Monday afternoon events include a tug of war, water fight, foot races and other competitive activities. Prizes will be awarded in each division.

The evening will again feature a beef barbecue at 5 o'clock and dancing at the firehouse during the evening hours.

During the two day celebration, concessions and other varied entertainment features will be available.

The committee in charge of the celebration includes Lou Terry, honorary chairman; Lloyd Rouke, general chairman; Happ Trafford, Ollie Johnson, Fred Schmidt, Jack Seiss, Chet Wengler, Norman Brown and C. B. Knauf.

The man made site of the West's Worlds Fair in 1939 has been named Treasure Island.

Exhibits Are Set For Science Hall

Chemical farms, microbes in harness, transformation of refuse into useful articles.

These are but a few of the features being planned for the Hall of Health and Science of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

The director of the hall intends to dramatize scientific research so it will graphically unfold to the layman what great strides science is making in all its phases, and how it may be expected to revolutionize the future.

One of the exhibits being planned will demonstrate the feasibility of city dwellers raising their own garden truck on the roofs of their houses.

There are five or six chemical farms operating commercially in California already. Water, not earth, is used as the growing medium. Seeds are placed in the chemically-treated water and abundant crops follow, surely and inexpensively. There are no crop failures on a chemical farm.

CAKE WINNERS

Ten prize cakes and one consolation cake were awarded contest winners among the visitors of the New Tastegood Bakery, 22 Leland avenue, Visitacion Valley, Saturday of last week, at the opening program.

The winners were Frank Veltri, Doris De Farrari, Howard Tilton, Mrs. Bosio, Miss Florence Eisenhut, Mrs. Bell, Charles Anderson, Miss Cecelia Cull, Mrs. Vermier and Mrs. Wikse, all of Visitacion Valley, and Mrs. A. Lummis, Brisbane.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

SYNOPSIS

Brooke Reyburn visits the office of Jed Stewart, a lawyer, to discuss the terms of an estate she has inherited from Mrs. Mary Amanda Dane. Unwittingly she overhears Jed talking to Mark Trent, a nephew of Mrs. Dane who has been disinherited. Mrs. Dane had lived at Lookout House, a huge structure on the sea, built by her father and divided into two, for her and Mark's father. Brooke had been a fashion expert, and Mrs. Dane, a "shut-in," hearing her on the radio, had invited her to call and developed a deep affection for her. Mark discloses that Mrs. Dane had threatened to disinherit him if he married Lola, from whom he is now divorced. He says he does not trust Henri and Clotilde Jacques, Mrs. Dane's servants. He says he is not interested in an offer of Brooke's to share the estate with him. Leaving her department store job, Brooke refuses an offer to "go stepping" with Jerry Field, a carefree young man who wants to marry her.

"Do you dislike Mark Trent?"

"Don't dislike him. Just don't want to think about the man, that's all. My sister Daphne went cock-eyed about him and he turned her down hard. Like a perfect gentleman, of course, but it got my goat."

"Are you sure he turned her down?"

"Sure. I'm not blaming him, I'm ashamed for her, that's all. He was probably fed up with her type. His ex-wife was never quite sober, I've heard. Daphne fell for him the minute she saw him, she had worried me by her crazy ideas of freedom for a girl, she'd picked up a post-war germ somewhere—all talk of course—and when Trent came along, she stopped drinking and staying out till morning at night clubs. I was relieved. Then he side-stepped. Forget it. I don't know why I told you. Nice street this, isn't it?"

Brooke nodded assent as they passed houses whose polished windows, violet-paned some of them, screened by laces of unbelievable fineness, regarded her with inscrutable calm. Thoroughbred dogs, proudly conscious of their gay collars and smart breast-straps, decorously escorted their young masters. Shining limousines waited before charming old doors. In the distance rose the faint, far sound of traffic, murmurous as a mighty flood which never rolled nearer.

"Here we are at your door. Sure you won't change your mind and go stepping?" The boyish quality was back in Field's voice. "Grand old house. Pity it was turned into apartments. Do you realize that you never have invited me to meet the family? What's wrong? Ashamed of your home—or me?"

"Neither. What a beastly suggestion, Jerry. If you must know, I haven't told them about our friendship. I have the finest family in the world, but their bump of humor is over-developed, it isn't a bump, it's a coconut."

"What is there about me that's a joke?"

"Nothing; don't be so touchy. I decided to be a little mysterious, that's all. Sam resents it if I ask him a question about his friends, thinks I am treating him like a boy when he is almost two years older than I; and since I got Lucette the chance to model and she is financially independent, she scorns my interest."

"Is your mother like that?"

"No, Mother's a dear, but she is so bound up in her children that she has no real life of her own. It's a pity because she is a comparatively young woman."

"She sounds old-fashioned and motherly to me. Grade A in mothers. I like that kind. Can't I come in and meet her? I had planned to celebrate with you. Now that you've turned me down, I haven't any place to go."

"You carry off that aggrieved, little-boy pose well, Jerry, but it leaves me cold. You, with your Crowd—capital C—, having nowhere to go! That's the funniest thing I ever heard. I intend to devote the next two hours to making plans with the family. But when we're settled, I'll invite you to Lookout House. Good night. Sorry."

The front door slammed with a force which shook the house. Sam, of course. The atmosphere tingled when he appeared. He was whistling as usual. Good-looking boy! His horn-rimmed spectacles added a touch of distinction. She patted his sleeve as he stopped beside her.

"Had a nice day, Sammy?"

"Not too good. They're taking off the play tomorrow. Our dear public wouldn't see it."

He pulled open the elevator door. "Hop in." As it clanged shut, he asked:

"All through being a working girl?"

Brooke swallowed a lump in her throat and nodded.

"It will seem queer being a lady of leisure."

"Leisure! You don't know the first letter of the word. I can see you wondering what you'll do next. Leisure isn't your line. You'll plunge into classes and sports. There won't be hours enough in a day for you."

The elevator stopped. A voice seeped through the cracks around the apartment door. Sam Reyburn grinned.

"Say, listen! Lucette's on the air—and how."

"Oh dear, what's her grievance now?" Brooke whispered, and put her key into the lock.

She tried to appraise with the eyes of a stranger the high-ceilinged, large living-room she entered. A connoisseur of portraits would know that Grandfather Reyburn over the mantel had been painted by a great artist; that the portrait of his daughter on the opposite wall was a choice bit of work; that the duchess of Argyle in her sables, green satin, and emeralds was a masterpiece. Always she had wanted to decorate a room as a background for the picture. Now she could. The duchess was hers. The mahogany and maple was sadly in need of rubbing up, but no amount of wear and tear could disguise its period and value.

Her eyes lingered on her mother perched on the arm of a couch. She did young things like that. Her hair was a sheeny platinum; her eyes were dark; her skin was clear and smooth; her figure in the amethyst crepe frock was round without in the least suggesting fat. There was a quizzical twist to her lovely mouth as she looked at her younger daughter, who, with legs thrust straight out before her, was slumped in a chair. Her red beret, which matched the belt of her slim green plain frock, was on the floor. Her hair was black and wavy; her eyes were brilliantly dark; her painted lips drooped at the corners. Brooke recognized the symptoms. Sam had been right, Lucette was on the air. She said as she slipped out of her lapin coat:

"In the Valley of Despond again, Lucette? Had a nice day, Mother?"

Mrs. Reyburn smiled and nodded. She would make her home-coming children think she had had a nice day, if the heavens had fallen. She was like that. Lucette answered her question.

"You'd be in the Valley of Despond, if you had had the day I've had, Brooke Reyburn. I'm dead to the world. A woman came into the sports shop with three daughters, and kept me showing clothes all the afternoon. Gosh! My feet ache like teeth gone nervy."

"Did she buy much?"

"Not that baby. She bought that little blue number only. For Pete's sake, why does Sam have to whistle when he's under the shower? The walls of this apartment are regular sounding boards."

"Bear up, Lucette, you will be out of it soon. If we can't sublet this apartment, we'll shut it up."

"Spoken like a lady and a multi, Brooke darling. And after that what?"

"You won't have to model for fussy women and you'll have a dressing room of your very own. Mr. Stewart has told me that I may take possession of Lookout House as soon as I like. Mark the Magnificent has given the Jovian nod. He won't contest the will. I'm going there tomorrow with a plumber. A bath for every bed will be my battle-cry."

Silence followed her words, a silence fraught with significance. Brooke caught her sister's look at her mother before she sat up straight and tense. She knew that posture, she was preparing for a skirmish. Lucette said defiantly:

"Glad you brought up that subject, Brooke. News flash! I'm not going to the sticks with you, not if you offer me a gold tub with diamond settings. I spent one night at the home of the late Mary Amanda Dane, and, so far as I am concerned, the name means look out and not go there again. That sealed door in her living-room gave me the creeps. Sam isn't—"

She dashed to the hall as the telephone rang.

"Lucette Reyburn speaking," she answered eagerly.

"Yes—yes—he is. I'll call him." Her voice was as flat as de-bubbled champagne. She pounded on the bath-room door.

"Phone for you, Sam—How do I know? It's the girl who always calls just as you've stepped under the shower.—All right."

She returned to the phone. "Hold the line. He'll be here in a minute."

Back in the living-room she dropped into a chair. With elbows propped on her knees, chin in her palms, she stared at the floor.

In bathrobe and slippers, Sam answered the phone.

"Can't make it—No. It's not another girl, it's a family confab. Sam Reyburn signing off. Good-by!"

He slammed down the receiver. "And I know of no reason why I should explain to you what I'm doing," he growled under his breath.

"Hi! Sammy! What's the shower-dame's name?" Lucette called.

Her brother scowled at her. "There's about as much privacy in this apartment as there is in the bandstand on the Common."

"Cheerio, darling. You'll have privacy, and how, if you live with Brooke. She's going house-owner in a big way. If there's to be a bath for every bed, of course there will be a sound-proof telephone booth with every room. What did you say the girl friend's name was?"

"It's none of your business, kiddo, who calls me." Hands deep in the pockets of his hectic bathrobe, Sam paced the living-room floor.

His mother laughed softly. She patted the couch.

"Stop walking the floor like a hungry lion and sit down, Sam. Lucette started something just before the phone rang. She should have known better than to start anything in the Reyburn family before it has been fed, but now that she has, you'd better finish it."

"What d'you mean by started, Mother?"

Brooke perched on the arm of a chair at the desk. She faced them all. Most of the time she could tell quite well what they were thinking. She answered her brother's question before her mother could.

"She means that Lucette announced that she did not intend to live at Lookout House with me, and that you—"

"Were not going either, Sam," Lucette finished triumphantly.

"Aren't you, Sam?"

"Say listen, Brooke. Don't you see how it is? I have to be at the theater early; I'm late when I get through; rehearsing all the morning. Twenty miles is a long way to commute."

"I had planned to buy you the snappiest convertible coupe on the market."

"Don't make me feel like a brute. Don't you see—"

"Of course I see, Sammy. You want to be on your own. I do understand."

"Don't worry about his being on his own, darling," Lucette cut in bitterly. "No one can be on his own in this family. The Great Adviser intends to stay right here to look after his little sister."

Brooke's eyes met her brother's; he nodded. Lucette flamed on:

"And Mother's going to stay to look after both of us."

"Mother!" Brooke echoed the word with shocked incredulity. "But I've planned the most wonderful things for Mother. Is it true?"

Celia Reyburn's eyes shone through a mist as they met her elder daughter's. Her lips curved in a lovely, trembly smile.

"When you say Mother, Brooke, I think it the most beautiful word in the world. But I will not make my home with you—at present. First, because Lookout House is yours and you should assume the responsibility and direction of it. You will do it more easily if I am not there. Second, I want to stay in the city, not so much because of the children, but because now that your financial future is assured, I shall feel that I may use a little of the money your father left me. I want—I want to be in the heart of things. I'll have an experienced maid, I'll have the right clothes, and—and I'll go places, I'm dying to go places."

Her impassioned voice broke. "Perhaps I'm selfish, perhaps you children think I'm a silly old woman."

Sam flung his arm about his mother. "Hooray for the Spirit of '56! Sorry, I shouldn't have mentioned your age, Celia Reyburn. Don't worry that you won't get enough of your family, Brooke. I'll have to drag these two giddy girls off to the country for rest occasionally. Aren't sore at us, are you, Brooke? Don't feel that we have let you down to go on alone?"

"Of course I don't, you old dear. Why shouldn't each one of us do as we like, now that there is some money back of us? Because I feel that I must carry out Mrs. Dane's wishes is no reason for dragging the rest of you into the country. Let's get busy planning If you are all sold on staying in the city, we'll have a bigger apartment. I may want to spend a week-end away from the sticks myself."

Best Hunting Dogs

"The best hunting dogs," pointer owners say of the breed. They have much to back that statement. Pointers are equal to any dog in intelligence, speedier than any other bird dog and easy to teach. Their duty is not to kill or retrieve. They merely scent out birds and point them out to the hunter. They do this by standing rigidly still, nose pointed directly at the game and tail out, pointed straight as a ramrod.

In as Much as Young Man Qualified for Job, He Got It

"Well," inquired the man in the swivel chair as the seventy-fourth applicant of the day strode into his office, "have you had a thorough education in art?"

"Yes, sir," answered the young applicant confidently, "I have."

"Studied in Europe?"

"Yes. Four years at the Beaux Arts."

"And you're sure you could guide visitors through this place competently?"

"Yes, I am sure."

"Well, we shall see. What were the three Greek orders?"

"Ionic, Corinthian and Doric."

"Good! What are the outstanding features of Gothic architecture?"

"Pointed arches, vertical accent, skeletonal framework with small wall space and large windows. This contrasts with the Romanesque where—"

"Whoa. Whoa. That's enough. And you'd be able to explain reproductions of great painters to inquiring visitors?"

"Certainly. The perspective of Fabriano, the power and religious fervor of Masaccio, the splendid chiaroscuro of Leonardo, the relentless realism of Rembrandt, the brilliant color tones of Veronese, born 1528, died—"

"You'll do. Now go and get your overalls on," concluded the proprietor of the Ducal Filling Station, Inc., "and give that customer out there a few gallons of gas." — Parke Cummings, in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

To the Point

Even a good resolution must have backbone to keep it from getting wobbly.

People who want more than they need have the minds of children.

A skeptic is a fellow who deliberately walks under a ladder just to see if he can change his luck.

Too many men never do a charitable act unless there is somebody around to applaud.

HAVE TODAY WON THE SILVER ANNIVERSARY 500-MILE INDIANAPOLIS RACE ON FIRESTONE GUM-DIPPED TIRES AT 113.58 MILES PER HOUR BREAKING ALL RECORDS STOP I KNEW I COULD WIN IF MY TIRES COULD STAND THE TERRIFIC HEAT GENERATED AT THESE NEW HIGH SPEEDS STOP WORDS CANNOT EXPRESS MY GRATEFUL APPRECIATION FOR THE MARVELOUS STRENGTH BUILT INTO YOUR TIRES AND THEIR OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCE

WILBUR SHAW.

Gum-dipped cords PROVIDE THE EXTRA MARGIN OF SAFETY ON THE SPEEDWAY OR THE HIGHWAY

THOUSANDS said that tires could not stand the terrific grind. They said cars had been built with much greater speed, turns in the track had been repaved with granite-like surface, yet Wilbur Shaw drove to victory on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires setting a new record of 113.58 miles per hour on one of the hottest days in the history of the Indianapolis track.

Think of the terrific impact on these tires as the cars roared into the treacherous turns and out again. Tons of force straining, pulling, and twisting inside the tire, yet not one cord loosened, not one tread separated from the cord body—all because Gum-Dipping, the Firestone patented process, successfully counteracted the internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life.

You will never drive your car at these record-breaking speeds, but for the safety of yourself and family you need the safest, strongest and most dependable tires. See your nearby Firestone Dealer or Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—the safest tires that money can buy.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON THIN WORN TIRES

No car owner is going to risk his life and the lives of his family knowingly on thin worn tires.

BRISBANE LOCAL NEWS

By ROY EDWARDS

Bernyce Kirk denies all amorous allegations set forth in this column last week. . . . I suppose they are right because Barney Blanchard won't look at anyone else but Bonnie Evans these days. . . . His sister Violet seems to have captured the heart of a brother of Bonnie, 'cause Carl was dancing frequently with her at the Catholic Club installation. . . . Bill Strassburger stuffed watermelon with Ruby Netzer Wednesday nite at Mrs. Tom Wilson's house . . . hope Nevada Lila doesn't object. . . . Jewel Lewis has the carpets in her house worn threadbare from running to the front window when a certain guy drives by. . . . Jack Blanchard, Jack Corrigan, Barney Blanchard, Bill Strassburger, Gibbon MacIntosh all took in a dance at a new club on Valencia street last Friday; two Brisbane gals were conspicuous by their absence. . . . We are glad to hear Wes MacIntosh will be home in a couple of days, following his operation. . . . Alberta Lothrop makes regular trips to visit Mac, which is quite nice. . . . Harold Gatto and his wife Mae, with little Jughaid, visited with Mrs. Page the latter part of this week. . . . Grace Georg was a sight to behold at the Catholic Club installation when she elected to serve Mrs. Cantor's youngest baby with a big sandwich and potato and macaroni salad. . . . Jack Kinney is for the present hoofing it due to the fact that his car was cracked up on the highway the other night. . . . From inside information the firemen have numerous surprises for the folks for the Fourth of July . . . the highlight will be the crowning of the queen, which will not only make some girl happy but will give the folks an idea of who stands out in the old town. . . . Speedy Bergstrom will soon wheel out his built up Ford for the people of Brisbane to inspect . . . it's about time, for he has been working on it for eight months that I know of. . . . Several of the boys who burned grass last Sunday are sporting beautiful sunburns from the exposure and heat . . . a very interested spectator of the grass burning was Beryl Cameron, the radio songbird who lives on Alvarado street across from Chief Schmidt. . . .
